

Precision 'pistol style' Gel Applicator

Airofog gel applicator is a professional and highly efficient tool for the control of crawling insects such as ants and cockroaches. Unlike other applicators, it sucks gel from the front end of the bait tube by use of negative pressure in order to get out every last drop of gel more precisely, and with a high level of control. As a pistol, a 5-position dosing wheel fitted inside the grip, along with a selection of different tips, make this applicator perform outstandingly. Optional extension allows for the treating of very small, hard-to-reach areas, such as deep corners.

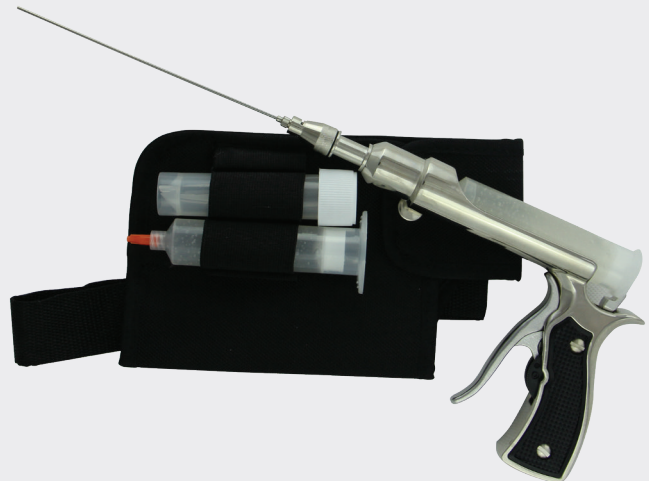

It matches up with 30-35g industry standard gel tubes. Two calibrations are supplied, which are differentiated by red and black color.
